Fall 2004, The University of Tennessee Libraries, in partnership with the Arrowmont School of Arts and Crafts and the Pi Beta Phi Elementary School, Gatlinburg, TN, was awarded a two-year Institute of Museum and Library Services grant to create a fully-searchable digital collection of letters, diaries, photographs, and short printed items that document the history of the Pi Beta Phi Settlement School and the Arrowmont School of Arts and Crafts. The digital collection will feature subject essays detailing Pi Beta Phi’s educational, health care, and economic development initiatives in Gatlinburg and an integrated curriculum developed in conjunction with teachers at the current Pi Beta Phi Elementary School, a K-8 school originally started as the settlement school, for use by students throughout the Southern Appalachians.
